2016 Milka Bliznakov Research Prize of the International Archive of Women in Architecture Center

The Jury for the 2016 Milka Bliznakov Research Prize of the International Archive of Women in Architecture Center is pleased to report that there were an exceptional number of high quality proposals among this year’s submissions. The Jury therefore chose to recognize proposals in two categories this year, digital media and historical scholarship, the first of which addresses the expanding role of the internet and social media in disseminating information, and the second that yields an original research paper. The two recipients are Dr. Ines Moisset, Director of the M.A. in Innovative Processes Design at Universidad Católica de Córdoba, for her proposal, “Women Architects on the Web,” and Dr. Tanja Poppelreuter, Lecturer in Architectural History and Theory at the University of Ulster in Belfast, for her proposal, “Refugee and émigré female architects before 1940.”

The Jury would like to thank each of the candidates who submitted proposals, encourage all to use the Archive as a resource in continuing their work, and consider applying again in the future.