VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.

VETERAN FAN — James M. Dyer of Rixeyville and the Class of 1923, (right) was one of the oldest VPI alumni attending the meeting. He talked a few points of basketball with Sonny Simpson, VPI’s assistant basketball coach, during a break in the dinner meeting. Dyer played basketball his “Rat” year and later lettered in baseball while at the university. More than 50 people from Culpeper, Rappahannock, Madison and Orange counties attended the meeting.