ball. The Gamecocks, who dropped their fifth of five, settled for 68 yards total offense after intermission and ran only 17 plays.

Three Gobblers rushed for more than 100 yards as Tech rushed for 442 yards. Phil Rogers had 93 of his 120-yard total after the break while George Heath and Roscoe Coles (104 and 111, respectively) ran 62 and 77 yards after the mid-game show.

“Everybody’s confidence — the players’ and coaches’ — all seemed to come at once,” says Defense Backfield Aide Buddy Bennett in summing up the victory. “We did a lot of things right — both ways.”
