BLACKSBURG, Va. — Virginia Tech’s battle weary Hokies suffered in the first half to a Virginia Tech defense that was just too much for the Cavaliers. A deep ball to Tajh Boyd in the flats put Tech ahead, 10-0, but the Hokies scored on three consecutive drives to take a 20-point lead into halftime.

In the second half, the Hokies continued their attack, scoring on the opening drive to take a 27-10 lead. Virginia Tech’s defense then stepped up, holding Virginia scoreless for the rest of the game.

The victory marked the first time in school history that Virginia Tech had beaten Virginia in back-to-back seasons. The Hokies have now won four of their last five meetings against the Cavaliers.

Virginia Tech’s defense was led by Devanteer Harris, who recorded four tackles for loss and a sack. The Virginia Tech offense was powered by Tajh Boyd, who threw for 321 yards and four touchdowns.

The win was a huge morale boost for the Hokies, who are currently in the midst of a tough stretch of games. Virginia Tech will look to continue their winning streak as they take on Virginia Commonwealth University in their next game.
