CHARLIE COFFEY, a man who built his football reputation on defense, has been named the new coach at 130 major college football teams in the nation in defense in 1974. It is a logical move for a man who has spent the last five years as a defensive coordinator and defensive line coach for the University of Arkansas. He is a protege of defensive line coach Herb Loveland and has been with Coach Loveland for the past five years.

The new coach has been named to replace the retiring Coach Loveland, who was with the University for 15 years. Coach Loveland, who is retiring after 30 years at the University, has been a major force in the development of the Arkansas football program.

The new coach will take over a team that finished third in the Southeastern Conference last season. The Razorbacks, who were led by Coach Loveland, finished with a 9-1-1 record and were ranked sixth in the final Associated Press poll.

The new coach has been a defensive coordinator for the past five years and has been instrumental in the development of the defensive line. He has been a defensive coordinator at the University of Arkansas for the past five years and has been a defensive coordinator for the past two seasons.

The new coach has been a defensive coordinator for the past five years and has been instrumental in the development of the defensive line. He has been a defensive coordinator at the University of Arkansas for the past five years and has been a defensive coordinator for the past two seasons.

The new coach has been a defensive coordinator for the past five years and has been instrumental in the development of the defensive line. He has been a defensive coordinator at the University of Arkansas for the past five years and has been a defensive coordinator for the past two seasons.

The new coach has been a defensive coordinator for the past five years and has been instrumental in the development of the defensive line. He has been a defensive coordinator at the University of Arkansas for the past five years and has been a defensive coordinator for the past two seasons.

The new coach has been a defensive coordinator for the past five years and has been instrumental in the development of the defensive line. He has been a defensive coordinator at the University of Arkansas for the past five years and has been a defensive coordinator for the past two seasons.