Sharpe Is Working for Class

I am impressed with the way Virginia Tech football Coach Jimmy Sharpe handled the situation whereby some 15 players dropped by the wayside because of academics. Tech has had coaches in the past who were more concerned with touchdowns than in quality points. Sharpe wants his players to go to class. I’m just sorry that more coaches don’t feel the same way, instead of trying to find ways to circumvent the rules by recruiting dummies and then keeping them a step ahead of the dean.
