VIRGINIA TECH'S offensive unit, the "Mean Machine," set the stage for next Saturday's annual spring squad football game by edging the defensive unit, the "Headhunters," 38-32 in a game-type scrimmage.

It was the first time this spring the offense had won, and the difference was quarterback Phil Rogers. Although he scored just once, Rogers directed the "Headhunters" to a 19-10 halftime lead, then changed jerseys and piloted the "Mean Machine" to victory.