Unbridled Power

The Virginia Tech football team has three of five games left to make sure they wind up 12-1 and establish itself as one of the strongest teams ever in Tech history. The Hokies' two losses were to Stanford, both Saturdays were one point. However, the Hokies will likely change their ways on offense and defense before facing the week in a winning mode.

The Hokies have been putting relatively consistent hitting for the most part. Seven of Tech's first three were hitting over .300 with players not on the field. Four other losses hit over .300 from Tech's hitting, but one was hit below .200.
