Forecaster Sees Two Virginia Teams As Winners This Week-Tech To Lose Again

Providing there are no ties, at least two Virginia football teams will be victorious this weekend. Two intra-state games highlight the action, with VMI taking on Richmond and Virginia Tech playing William and Mary. Winless Virginia has the task of stopping a red-hot Clemson squad.

According to forecaster Bob Harmon, Virginia will remain winless, as the Cavaliers are 31 point underdogs.

VMI is eight points better than Richmond, and the Indians of William and Mary are a slight one point favorite over also winless Virginia Tech.
